Details of the workshop

Often writing a document, a research paper or a report consumes a lot of time for typesetting. The structuring of a document is a very important step and people tend to look at the text editors and document processors as an option for editing. However, there exist many faster ways of editing and structuring a document. LaTeX offers a high-quality typesetting environment for documentation. LaTeX is the de facto standard for the communication and publication of documents. The 2-day workshop is intended to offer a hands-on LaTeX experience to the research scholars, post-graduate students, and educators alike. It also covers errors and package handling in LaTeX. After the completion of the workshop the participants will be able to create published-quality research papers for SCOPUS, WOS, ABDC and
